

"Is this for keeps?" eyes ask

by DAVID PIERSON

"None of them thought it was for keeps," said Kathie Koch, a junior at OLA. Miss Koch, along with four other CYO workers and Father Michael Tracey, visited the Vietnamese refugee camp at Eglin Air Force Base in Florida with a carload of clothes and toys last week.

"When I gave a little girl the doll," said Miss Koch, "she just hugged it and looked to me to see if it was all right. She didn't know it was her to keep. She thought she had to give it back. In fact, none of them thought it was for keeps."

The project was begun when Mrs. Norma Pavre, adult supervisor of Our Lady of the Gulf's CYO, was asked by the Social Security Administration to help with donations to the refugees. So when school ended last week, five CYO workers and Father Tracey travelled by car to the air force base 22 miles outside Fort Walton Beach for three days.

The camp, which now has a population of more than 5,000, is lined with rows of canvas tents that hold 17 people each. Bulletin boards throughout the camp are filled with the names and pictures of missing relatives.

The camp, almost entirely occupied by the upper class of Vietnamese, is filled with lawyers, teachers, doctors, and government officials. Most have no plans of returning because they believe their lives are worthless under the new regime. Among those in the camp is the originator of the Anti-Communist League in Saigon and a man who worked with the CIA.

"The camp was very clean," said Gerri Koch. "When any of the children dropped or threw anything on the ground, their parents would look hard at them and make them pick it up. Everything in the camp was clean and neat. There weren't even any flies around."

Father Tracey told the story of one of the men in the camp who tried to escape from Vietnam with wife and baby during the last hours of the American evacuation. "The man made the helicopter," said Father Tracey, "but his wife was held back. She held up the baby with both hands, and he grabbed it with both hands as the helicopter was whisked away. When we saw him at the camp, he was very depressed and was having trouble taking care of the baby."

Susie Tabor, another one of the CYO workers who made the trip, told the story of another man's escape from the fallen country. "In the last days of the war," she said, "he exchanged all of his money for gold and put it into a suitcase. But as he boarded the helicopter, someone pulled open the suitcase and all the gold fell out."

"It was his whole life's investment," she said. "His whole life just fell out." "But the people are not bitter," said Father Tracey. "They're hopeful people. They just want a chance to start again. They don't look back. They're optimistic and are determined to make it, and they feel they have the potential to make it."

Then he added on a somber note, "They did show a sense of uneasiness over being in a new country with a new set of customs, and they were very interested in news of their homeland. But I guess we weren't much help there."

School board refuses to return money

Supervisors fail on repayment plan

Hancock supervisors failed in two sessions this week to formulate any plan to repay $675,000 in state Camille loan monies. The State Office of Budget and Accounting earlier set June 6 as the deadline for all counties to submit plans for repayment of the GEC funds.

It was the consensus of the board Tuesday that the State Budget and Accounting Director Francis Geoghegan be sent the minutes of the two Hancock meetings in lieu of a plan.

Matters were further complicated by a refusal of the Hancock County School Board to return $180,000 of the GEC money allocated to it by the Board of Supervisors in 1972.

A letter from Geoghegan to the supervisors last week ordered the immediate return of the $180,000 as well as $165,000 spent by the board without authorization along with the board's plan for repayment of the remainder of the loan.

A motion by Beat 5 supervisor James Travirca to allocate one mill beginning this September and two mills beginning the following September failed after receiving a second from board president A. A. Kellar. In a tie vote supervisors Jerry Ladner and Bully Zengarlind voted against the proposal with Beat three supervisor Oscar Peterson abstaining.

The motion also included provisions to report the refusal of the school board to return their share of the money to the supervisors and a proposal to renegotiate with the state over demands to return the $165,947.49. According to board records, Kellar said $62,500 spent by the supervisors did have GEC Council approval.

Two other motions proposed by Oscar Peterson and Jerry Ladner failed for want of a second. Peterson's motion was to ask the director for an extension of an additional week. Ladner's motion was to pay only the interest on the loan for another year.

Ladner who called the demand for the money a political move, said he would not vote for any motion to repay any of the loan money until he received a complete breakdown of where the total loan of $675,000 had been spent.

Chancery Clerk John Rutherford told supervisors that it was impossible to get a breakdown because the money had been placed in the general fund with other money and it could not be determined exactly what the money was spent on.

"You just can't put a decision off any longer," Board Attorney Sam Favre told the supervisors. "This is the hour of adjournment and you have got to come up with a plan to pay back this money today. I told you two years ago that this day was going to come, and now it is here and you have to find some way to pay this money back."

The most immediate problem for the board is the demand made by the office of Budget and Accounting for the $165,947.49 spent without prior approval. Rutherford reported that there is presently $36,000 in the GEC account including $16,000 on hand and $20,000 in an interim loan to county engineer Larry Seale. Rutherford also said he could collect about $65,000 from various county funds to add to the remaining GEC funds.

Rutherford warned, however, that he could not guarantee that all county payrolls could be made through September after the money is returned.

Favre said that the state could conceivably get a mandamus order to take back the $180,000 allocated to the school board. The board had intended to use the money as part of a building program which included a cafeteria at Hancock North Central, but had not spent the money due to the failure of two recent bond issues.

"We have got to have some money to operate the schools next year," said board chairman Monvel Cuevas. "If we don't get to keep this money, this board will have to find some other way to get us some money for next year."

"We have to refuse to give you this money back," added board member Eric Larsen, "because the people in the county just wouldn't understand if we

Waveland resident dies of self-inflicted wound

Waveland resident Along Summers, 28, of 409 Ulman St., was pronounced dead on arrival at Gulfport Memorial Hospital Monday evening after allegedly shooting himself in the abdomen with a 20 gauge shotgun at his home in Middletown.

Waveland police chief Donald Dorn said there was some doubt at first whether the wound was self-inflicted, but a coroner's jury classified the death as suicide Monday night in Gulfport.

Patrolmen Terry Holmes and Robert Tartavouille investigated the incident which was reported at 6:20 p.m.

Holmes said there were no witnesses to the shooting, but that Summers' wife, Edna, heard the shot from the nearby home of her sister Mrs. Alice White.

Summers was taken immediately to Hancock General Hospital and was then transferred to Gulfport Memorial. The members of the coroner's jury were Ronald Ferrell, Donald Dorn, Terry Holmes, Pat Sullivan, May Chamberlain, and Eugene Hughes, Jr. Coroner was Mrs. Gladys O'Neill.

Mrs. Winter plans campaign

Mrs. Elise Winter, wife of Mississippi Lieutenant Governor William Winter, will be in Bay St. Louis Wednesday, May 11 as part of a state-wide campaign for her husband's bid for the Mississippi governorship.

An aide to Mrs. Winter said that the lieutenant governor's wife would arrive sometime mid-morning Wednesday and planned to visit with businesses and citizens in the downtown area on her campaigning tour.

Mrs. Winter will be in Picayune, Miss. before arriving on the coast Wednesday.

DONALD MORAN

Moran seeks supervisor's seat

Donald "Don" Moran, 34, has announced he will seek the Hancock County Beat Four supervisor's seat in the August Democratic primary.

Moran, an employee of J&L Fabricating, is a native of Catahoula and a graduate of Kiln High School.

He and his wife, Gaynell, reside at Route 3, Box 393, Picayune, Miss. with their three children, Donald, Jr., Angela, and Rachel.

International to scuttle first liberty ship Monday

International Demolition and Salvage Company announced plans to sink the first of five World War II liberty ships, the USS Benjamin Waterhouse, Monday June 9 at a point five and a half miles south of Dog Keyes Pass.

The sinkings designed to create two artificial fishing reefs off the Mississippi Gulf Coast, is a joint project of the Mississippi Marine Conservation Commission and the Mississippi Gulf Fishing Banks Inc.

The sinking will take place as close to 10 a.m. as possible. The hull of the liberty vessel, which has been undergoing salvage operations for scrap by International at Port Bienville Industrial Park, will be towed by the tugboat Elaine O, owned and operated by Claude Bass Jr. with Marine Towing & Contract, New Orleans.

International has removed 80 percent of all ferrous metal from the vintage ships, including the superstructure, upper decks and upper hull for recycling.

Spokesmen for the company said the firm had removed all oil and contaminants from the vessel according to EPA specifications.

The reef site will be marked by a coast Guard approved, lighted can buoy painted with alternating international orange and white stripes and marked FH3.

Bay St. Louis Mayor Warren Carver said Wednesday he would hold private talks with Commissioners Lucien Kidd and Clarence Ladner Thursday over his suggestions for budget cuts that would enable the city to repay $87,964.39 in GEC loan monies without imposing any additional millage on the city.

Carver said that he would meet with the commissioners first privately to reveal his proposed budget cuts, but that he intended and wanted to make his course of action public in a 10 a.m. council meeting Thursday.

Carver announced his surprise budget plans at Tuesday's council session when the council came to the sticky repayment issue on the agenda.

Board advised of Bayou Cadet study

The Hancock County Board of Supervisors received notification Monday that further studies on the feasibility of providing navigation improvements for Cadet Bayou had been approved.

In a letter from U. S. District Corps Engineer Drake Wilson, the board was told preliminary data taken indicated that modification of the existing project to provide a 10x300x800 foot harbor basin with a 10x100 foot access channel merited further study.

In other business supervisors took under advisement six bids for the exhibit building at the Hancock County fairgrounds. Bids were received from Ace Gordon Myrick of Gulfport, $56,975; D. W. Puckitt of Gulfport, $60,900; John R. Hayward of Waveland, $66,254.80; Flair Construction of Gulfport, $56,774; Coleman Construction of Hattiesburg, $59,739; and Terry Feeney of Waveland, $62,000.

Red Cross chairman berates county for lack of support

"Everybody in Hancock County wants a Red Cross chapter, but nobody wants to contribute their time or money to support one," Hancock County Red Cross Disaster Chairman James Wimbish said angrily last week.

Wimbish said that recent efforts by volunteers in the local chapter to solicit funds from citizens and merchants had resulted in very poor response. The Hancock County chapter, he said, had only been able to collect $250 in its current membership drive of the $2,000 quota set for the local chapter by the National American Red Cross.

"It isn't as if we are asking for so much," Wimbish went on. "After all of the aid the American Red Cross has given to people in this area following the recent hurricanes, we don't think it is asking very much for these same people who have received aid in the past to help and support us now as we have supported them."

Wimbish said following Hurricane Camille in 1969 the American Red Cross spent a total of $2,250,000 in immediate disaster assistance and in direct assistance to the victims of the storm, a total of about 3,548 families. Wimbish also quoted a figure of $6,882.50 in disaster relief after Hurricane Carmen last year.

"I just don't think people understand how much is involved in conducting an evacuation in times of a natural disaster," Wimbish said. "During Camille and Carmen we operated shelters at the Mississippi Test Facility and five other locations in Hancock County," Wimbish added, "and it takes money to feed and care for all those people."

In the event of natural disasters, Wimbish said the chapter was authorized to spend as much as $10,000 immediately with an option to apply for more aid from the national chapter if necessary. The National American Red Cross is funded primarily by the United Fund, but also depends upon support from local chapters. A quota for each chapter is established by population figures of the area served.

Wimbish said the local chapter was asked this year to raise $2,000 compared to $1,500 for 1974.

"The Hancock County chapter has never met its quota in the history of its operation, and we think that this year we should make a real effort to meet it." The Red Cross chairman said the chapter was asking for $1 from each local resident and $1 per employee from each business in order to meet the quota. The $1 donation constitutes membership in the local chapter.

"One woman told me she wouldn't contribute, because the Red Cross had only given her $450 after Hurricane Camille," Wimbish said. "I hope that the rest of the people in Hancock County do not have that attitude."

Each year the national organization gives the local chapter $4,000 to perform all of its regular services, Wimbish said. Included in these services are aid to families of servicemen, the county blood bank, first aid classes and swimming classes in addition to making plans for evacuation during a disaster situation.

"The people may find that they need the Red Cross more than they think," Wimbish said. "With the new Federal Disaster Relief laws, a lot of these people who do not have the proper insurance will be cut out of federal aid the next time a hurricane hits and the Red Cross will be the only place they can turn to for help."

Contributions may be sent to the American Red Cross, P.O. Box 232, Bay St. Louis, Miss.

Acrobatics highlight Stennis show

Aerobatics and stunt flying were the main attractions at the all-day air show Sunday at Stennis International Airport sponsored by the Hancock County Port and Harbor Commission.

Hundreds of Hancock County residents and visitors were entertained by aerial demonstrations by professional and amateur pilots beginning at 9 a.m.

Participating in the demonstrations were members of the Air Explorer Squadron S14, Flight Demonstration Team, and several individual pilots including Gulf Publishing President Roland Weeks in a Pitts Special, Tom Simmons in an EAA Bi Plane, Ken Ulrich in a Stock J 3, Kent Jones in a P51 Mustang, I. N. Burchinal in a F4F Wildcat and Corky Fornof in a Bearcat.

A demonstration of parachute jumping was given by the Gulf Coast Parachute Association, directed by Mike Brown, and the Blue Halos, Mississippi National Guard Parachute Team directed by Captain Lee Reed. Demonstrations of gliders and radio controlled model aircraft were also a part of the free show.

In addition to the aerial performances visitors to the airport could take sightseeing rides and enjoy the many displays.

On display were about 30 planes of various eras and designs. Of special interest was the Flying Tigers Flying Museum from Paris, Texas, the World War II B-17 used by John Wayne in "The Battle of Midway" and late model planes including Piper and Cessna models.

A major beneficiary of the free air show was the Crippled Children's Hospital in Kiln. Proceeds from sales at the concession stands and also from tours of some of the planes were donated to the clinic. The Kiln Jaycees were responsible for the manning of the concession booths.

Waveland Mayor John Longo suggested to aldermen Tuesday night that a meeting be held with Bay St. Louis and Hancock County school officials to discuss problems the county and city school systems and the possibility of creating a new high school in Waveland.

"In view of the financial problems of all of the school districts in the county," Longo said, "I feel that it would be beneficial for all of us to sit down and talk about some possible solutions. A solution might be the creation of a consolidated county system, or the creation of a separate district in Waveland."

Longo said that he and Waveland residents would be satisfied to remain under jurisdiction of the Waveland School District.

Waveland Mayor urges creation of separate high school

Waveland Mayor John Longo suggested to aldermen Tuesday night that a meeting be held with Bay St. Louis and Hancock County school officials to discuss problems in the county and city school systems and the possibility of creating a new high school in Waveland.

"In view of the financial problems of all of the school districts in the county," said Longo, "I feel that it would be beneficial for all of us to sit down and talk about some possible solutions. The solution might be the creation of a consolidated countywide system, or the creation of a separate district for Waveland."

Longo said that he felt Waveland residents would be satisfied to remain under the jurisdiction of the Bay-Waveland School District if a high school could be created in Waveland.

Waveland residents overwhelmingly approved a move by Longo in January to create a separate school district for Waveland. Longo said that the city was still in the process of applying to the State Board of Education for the authority to create the separate district.

At the time of the election, Longo said that the city would have an adequate tax base to support a separate school district. The board of aldermen had planned to begin operation of a combined junior and senior high school in the Waveland Elementary school building in September 1976 with elementary grades to be transferred to the school building on Coleman Avenue.

Longo said Wednesday the board had run into a few snags however.

"For one thing the Bay-Waveland school board told us at first that we could use the Waveland Elementary School, and now they are saying that we cannot."

Longo said that his purpose in suggesting a joint meeting with county and city school officials was to lead a general discussion of county school problems, and not to specifically discuss the creation of a Waveland separate school district.

In other business the Waveland board of aldermen voted to increase the budget for the Senior Citizens program from $2,400 to $4,762 for next year. Director of the senior citizens program Eve McDonald appeared before the board to request the increase for several programs that would no longer be funded by federal programs including nutrition, transportation, information referral and RSVP. The board also voted to use a $1,100 insurance settlement on a city car destroyed by an accident last month for a new pick-up truck for the sanitation department. Waveland patrolman Terry Holmes was authorized to lease a new Identikit, a composite set of plastic overlays used to identify suspects. Holmes said the kit could be leased from Smith and Wesson for $15 a month which included a training period for the police officers. Holmes said identifications of criminals could be made more easily with the kit because composite code numbers could be sent to other cities just like a photograph. The board also voted to purchase a $100 ad in the Waveland Miss Hospitality Contest program. The contest, which will select the local representative for the state competition in Biloxi July 23-26, will be held at the American Legion Hall in Waveland June 17.

I was born in Bay St. Louis on April 27, 1947 and am the daughter of Curtis and Elver Ladner of Bay St. Louis. My grandparents are Ora Ladner and Juanita Moran Ladner of Lakeshore and Asa LaFontaine and the late Victoria Necessaire LaFontaine of Bay St. Louis.

I am a graduate of St. Joseph's Academy, Bay St. Louis, Class of 1965.

After completing high school, I became employed in the Chancery Clerk's office in August of 1965. During the course of the next eight and one-half years I gained experience in every phase of work concerning the duties of the Chancery Clerk's office.

In April of 1968, I was promoted to the position of Chief Deputy Clerk. I held this position until February of 1974. The Chief Deputy must be capable of assuming the supervisory and administrative responsibilities of the office during any absence of the Chancery Clerk. I have handled these responsibilities in a reliable, efficient, and courteous manner.

The many phone calls I received before announcing my candidacy, urging me to run, and the many subsequent to my announcement, pledging support to me, have been both encouraging and heart warming.

I will try to contact as many of you as I can personally. Should I not have the privilege of talking to you personally, please accept this message as my solicitation of your vote and support.

Welcoming new industry

Kuhlman, Portland Cement; A.A. Kellar, beat two supervisor; Oscar Peterson, beat three supervisor; (middle row) J. Egan, contractor; J. McKinnis, Marine Concrete; Sam Ladner, Port and Harbor; Oliver Frierson, Port and Harbor; (back row) L. Hecker Marine Concrete superintendent; James Travirca, beat five supervisor; and Bully Zengarleng, beat four supervisor.

Marine Concrete begins production

Marine Concrete Structures, Inc., a New Orleans based industry involved with the production of concrete barges for offshore oil development, began production on its first job at its new Port Bienville plant May 27.

President Don Payne said work on the first job, piling and wharf decking for the ECOL refinery at Garyville, La., was proceeding on schedule although the plant itself is still under construction. The contractor for the job is Boh Brothers of New Orleans.

From its plant at Port Bienville, Marine Structures will build concrete barges, platforms, walkways and skimmer barges for offshore oil and marine development.

Payne said that the company also plans to use the plant in the construction of concrete gravity structures and concrete jacketed platforms for use in moderate depth waters in the near future. He said that he expected to employ about 100 local workers on these contracts.

Attending the first pouring of concrete at the new plant were: Hancock County supervisors A.A. Kellar, Jerry Ladner, Oscar Peterson, Bully Zengarleng and James Barkley, A.J. Turner, L. Hecker and Jim McKinnis; Boh Brothers contractor J. Egan; a representative of the Lone Star Cement Company, Ed Stine; and a representative of Portland Cement Company, Robert Kuhlman.

NSTL begins preliminary tests of space shuttle

The first in a series of preliminary tests of the space shuttle main engine designed by Rocketdyne Division of Rockwell International Corporation were successfully completed Tuesday afternoon at National Space Technology Laboratories.

Payne said that the test, a fuel "blow down" test, was added by Rocketdyne engineers to gather needed data before beginning the ignition testing on the space shuttle later this week.

All of these preliminary tests are leading up to a main stage of full thrust which will probably occur late this summer, said Herring. "The main stage testing will bring the engine to its full power of 470,000 pounds of thrust."

Tests of the space shuttle engine, the largest liquid hydrogen engine ever developed, are being conducted at NSTL test stands originally used for testing the Saturn V rockets which have been remodeled at a cost of $8 million.

Completion date of the first space shuttle engine is set for 1980 with further developments on the engine continuing at NSTL through 1984. Rocketdyne manager at NSTL, Paul Fuller said the most unique advantage of the space shuttle engine is that it can be recovered and reused on up to 55 space missions.

Eleven of the engines will eventually be developed and tested at NSTL. The engines will be a part of the orbiter section of the space shuttle flight system which is designed to carry a crew of seven in orbit for seven days.

Hancock fleet receives blessing

Thirty or more fishing and pleasure boats belonging to residents of Hancock County were bestowed with St. Christopher medals symbolizing a successful voyage and a safe return at the annual blessing of the fleet Saturday afternoon at Ladner's Marina in Bayou Caddy.

Father Gregory Johnson of Our Lady of the Gulf Church conducted the blessing ceremony following a procession of 25 boats through Bayou Caddy.

The procession was led by the Mississippi Boat and Water Safety Patrol. Visiting dignitaries and judges of the contest viewed the proceedings from aboard the Omeco, owned by John House, which conducted a tour from Bucaanier Park to Bayou Caddy.

Fred Logan, vice president of the Hancock County Chamber of Commerce, acted as master of ceremonies for the festivities and presented the trophies to the best decorated boats in the procession. He was assisted by Captain Max Berns, Chamber manager.

Receiving the first place award was the Lady Gloria, owned by T. J. Strong. The captain received a trophy donated by Ladner's Seafood Restaurant which will be passed on each year to the new first place winner.

Placing second was the Hilton, owned by Ernest Strong, and placing third was the Little Sis, owned by Fritz Garcia.

Judges of the contest were Fred Logan, John McKenna and Mrs. Marie Guenard.

County boards announce deadline

Hancock and Pearl River County Chairmen of the Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service, Forest M. Lee and James O. Ladner announced that the sign-off deadline for ASCS cost-share assistance programs is June 15.

The two county chairmen said that farmers could make requests for Annual Conservation Program and Forestry Incentive Program cost-share assistance at the Pearl River-Hancock ASCS office to perform conservation practices including establishing a permanent vegetative cover, planting trees, improving a stand of forest trees, constructing terrace systems, controlling sediment retention, erosion or water control, applying lime or other minerals, improving an established vegetative cover, constructing or sealing dams, pits or ponds, and constructing drainage systems either flat V-ditches or W-ditches.

Lee said funds for the programs are limited and will be distributed on the basis of an established priority listing. He said farmers qualifying as low income farmers may earn 80 percent of cost if approved by the county committee. The average cost-share is 50 to 75 percent, he said.

Farmer's market style

The produce department at Food Center is only one of the many departments that have been remodelled during the last five months.

Also enlarged and improved are the meat, dairy and frozen food departments.

June named Hospitality Month

June has been proclaimed Hospitality Month in Mississippi by Governor William L. Waller.

Picayune arrests solve break-ins

The Hancock County Sheriff's Office said Wednesday that three juveniles arrested by the Picayune police May 27 were probably responsible for three robberies in Hancock County May 25.

Sheriff Sylvan Ladner said the three juveniles, aged 13, 15 and 16, all from Picayune, had admitted to break-ins at the Sassy Cat Lounge on Highway 43, the Sweet Shop Tractor Company on Highway 43 and the O. Haas residence in Kiln.

Picayune police reported that a stereo and television taken from the Sweet Shop Tractor Company, a bow and arrow and 12 and 410 gauge shotguns taken from the Haas home had been recovered in the possession of the juveniles. Thirty dollars taken from the Sassy Cat Lounge was not recovered.

The three youths are presently being held in the Picayune jail pending a hearing on the charges in juvenile court.

Flea market opens

More than 50 vendors from three states will exhibit their wares at the monthly Flea Market Saturday, June 7, and Sunday, June 8, at the Fairgrounds building on Highway 11 South in Picayune.

Sponsored by the Picayune Chamber of Commerce, the market will feature a variety of articles ranging from antiques to stuffed zebras.

Admission is free and there is no charge for parking. Free door prizes will also be given throughout both days.

Doors open at 9 a.m. Saturday and 12:30 on Sunday. Closing time is 6 p.m. both days.

The name was derived from the word "choh" meaning "to be" and "taw" meaning "people". The Choctaw Indians were one of the largest and most powerful tribes in the Southeastern United States. They were known for their craftsmanship, particularly in the making of pottery and weaving. They also had a rich oral tradition of stories and songs. The Choctaw Indians were eventually forced to relocate to Indian Territory in the 1830s. Today, the Choctaw people live in Mississippi and Oklahoma.

Choctaw Indians intertwine with Hancock history

By JOE PILET

Editor's note: This is the fourth in a series of continuing articles dealing with items of historical interest in the Gulf Coast area written for the Sea Coast Echo by Mrs. Joe Pilet. All rights reserved.

It would be impossible to write a true history of Hancock County without adding a few incidents concerning the Choctaw Indians.

In an address given by Hon. J. F. H. Claiborne in the year 1876 he explained: "The tradition of the Choctaws is that the Naniwyha-hill (near the source of Pearl River) gave birth to two children, that they were suckled by a bear and afterwards supplied with meat by a panther and a wolf. The boy grew up to be a mighty hunter and warrior; the girl became the mother of the tribe."

It is an accepted fact that long before the written language was practiced in Mississippi the Gulf Coast of our state was occupied by a noble race of Choctaw Indians who roamed the seaboard, fished the rivers and bayous, gave musical names to our area and called Bay St. Louis "A-chou-poulu" (meaning bad-grass - sticker grass - burr grass).

In the early 1800's one Jean Cuevas raised cattle on Cat Island. No doubt Cuevas had friendly relations with many Choctaws. Years later (May 7, 1922, to be exact) a reporter for the New Orleans Times Picayune interviewed the grandson of Jean Cuevas.

James A. Cuevas was then blind, a veteran of the Confederacy. Grandfather Cuevas had been in the War of 1812. The reporter, Zoe Posey, sat on the porch of the Confederate veteran's home at Beauvoir and listened as the aged man spoke of the early Indians.

"Indians? Sure, there were Indians all over Hancock County."

"Devil's Swamp was their big settlement. The Chief had a name that sounded like Tic-alay."

"When an Indian died they buried him and there was no mourning or moaning, no noise of any kind at the time, but four weeks later they all went to the grave and set up a wail, and they cried and wailed and wailed and cried. This lasted nearly all day. At night they went back to the grave and a line was formed - men in front, women next and then the children. They all danced and sang around the grave in their high pitched voices singing "Ho-Hey-Ho-he-hey-Ha" over and over again.

"Around the 1850's a number of the Indians were sent to Arkansas from Bayou LaCade. These were half-civilized and wore feathers and beads."

"There were many Indians at Bayou Goula, too. They were good people, honest and truthful, and friends always if you treated them right, but look out if you offended one - they never forgave and sometimes would kill."

"The Indians of the coast made their own laws. If one killed another and ran away, the rest of the tribe could take one member of his family and shoot him, for to them a life was a life. But they never ran away, always giving themselves up to their chief."

"When an Indian was to be shot, a grave was dug and he was draped in his blanket and put in the grave and then shot. With him was placed a jug of whiskey, some tobacco, a pipe, flint and other things that belonged to him. The grave was filled in with earth, each Indian throwing in a handful and singing. There was no disgrace about such a death - it was simply the law."

"As I said, the Indians were good people, and there was never any trouble, but they liked whiskey and sometimes when they got drunk they killed. When sober they were sorry and were ready to pay the penalty and die for it."

"Whiskey was very cheap then - 18 cents a gallon at wholesale - and 25 cents at retail. It was fine whiskey, too, made of corn and rye."

Still existing in Hancock County are evidences of Choctaw habitation. Mounds have been located and excavation is in both active and planning stages. A small group of descendants of these Indians are now in Philadelphia, Mississippi. Their ancestral arts, crafts and games are kept alive through a Fair open to the public each year about mid-July.

Clinic to examine legal topics

The legal aspects of nursing will be explored in a one-day workshop for area nurses June 18 at the Veterans Administration Center in Gulfport. Among subjects discussed will be ethics, licensure, the expert witness, and malpractice.

Principal speaker for the clinic will be Dr. Paul S. Derian, professor of orthopedic surgery and chief of the division of orthopedics at the University of Mississippi Medical Center. Dr. Derian is also adjunct professor of law at the University of Mississippi School of Law.

Ms. Betty Heimbarger, instructor in the associate degree nursing program at Hinds Junior College, will also be on the faculty.

The University of Mississippi Nursing Alumni Chapter, the School of Nursing, University Hospital, and the UMC Division of Continuing Health Professional Education are sponsoring the workshop with partial support from the Mississippi Regional Medical Program.

A registration fee of $10 is payable to Division of Continuing Health Professional Education, University Medical Center, 2500 North State Street, Jackson, Mississippi, 39216 for any nurse who wishes to attend the clinic.

Veterans request corrections

Merlyn J. Cook, Assistant VA Director for Regional Office, today reminded veterans of their right to request correction of what they feel are errors or injustices in their military records.

Application must be submitted to the branch in which the veteran served, but VA can provide the necessary Department of Defense form, DD-149, "Application for Correction of Military or Naval Record."

Cook pointed out that while some errors may seem insignificant, correction of others could prove important, resulting in eligibility for VA and other benefits.

Generally, veterans are expected to file requests for correction within three years, but this deadline may be waived in interest of justice, Cook said.

Applications may be filed by the veteran, survivors, or legal representatives.

June is Dairy Month

June has been designated as "Dairy Month" throughout the entire United States. This year marks the 39th anniversary for the month long activity. This promotion has gained momentum through the years and provides an excellent opportunity to explore the trends in our Mississippi Dairy Industry.

The importance of the dairy industry to our State of Mississippi should not be minimized. In addition to supplying nature's most nearly perfect food, the dairy industry adds an estimated $200 million to the state's economy annually.

The dairy industry consists of a vast network of producers, processors, distributors, wholesale and retail sales outlets, and many other segments necessary to provide pure, clean, wholesome milk to consumers each day. The transportation of raw milk, processed milk, and processed milk products supplies still another vital service to consumers. This list could go on and on, but perhaps it would be sufficient to say that there are many segments of the dairy industry, each one playing a necessary role, that go to make up the total dairy marketing system.

There are about 1,900 dairy farmers that provide the basic input into the marketing process-milk. Farmers produce milk under a host of sanitary regulations in an effort to insure the basic supply to be the very highest quality. Dairy farmers must milk the cows at least twice a day every day of the year. The dairy farmer has a tremendous investment in his resources. Some of these resources included are: land, equipment, cows and many other items.

Long gone are the days when dairy farmers just milked cows. His system of marketing has advanced to the point where he must become knowledgeable in many areas. Today's marketing system demands that the dairy farmer know the basic fundamentals of milk marketing. The basic fundamentals include some economics, law and many other disciplines.

Although the total number of dairy farmers has declined, the total amount of milk marketed has increased at a substantial rate. An analysis of this trend denotes some interesting facts. The most obvious fact is that dairy farmers are becoming more efficient. This is documented by the significant gains that have been made in the amount of milk produced per cow. In 1975, this amount set an all time record high as production per cow amounted to 7,031 pounds.

Then too, to take advantage of any economies offered through volume in an effort to lower the unit cost of production, herd sizes are becoming larger. This is particularly true in Grade A herds.

With the month of June upon us then, it is a good time to pay tribute to the hardworking dairy farmers of the state of Mississippi and everywhere who supply us with this vital food product.

Colling's Corner

By E.S. Colling

We were very glad that the American do-gooders who recently were held in their compound by Laotian "students" were finally released unharmed. The Laos rebels said they never meant to hurt them, just wanted to force them to leave the country.

Seems to us that there would be no problem. Did you ever see Laos? We've never been in Laos, but we flew right across it from border to border one time on a flight from Hanoi to Bangkok; there's nothing much to see except millions of trees, so if anybody wanted us to get OUT of Laos he wouldn't have to argue more than ten seconds about it.

But, oddly enough, all of those sub-normal countries—Laos, South Vietnam, Cambodia, Thailand—are united on one small demand; they want all Americans to get out, but to remember to keep beaucoup American dollars coming in so that their politicians' Swiss bank accounts grow and flourish.

While that proposal seems to us slightly ridiculous, apparently it doesn't cause our unable Congress to even blink. How many billion dollars beside the actual cost of warfare have we already pumped into these money-sucking so-called democracies? We are sure that most Americans rejoice that so many people from these countries have been snatched to safety here, even though their rescue has added many problems to us, but why not call it a day right now and let these little countries stew in their own juice from now on? We're sure our wise lawmakers can find ways to use any extra money for the benefit of our own people!

We understand that already many of the refugees who have been airlifted to safety are now clamoring to be airlifted back again to their own lands. We can understand their pangs of homesickness. But does another U.S. dollar subsidy go along with this reverse airlift? Are we to continue to support the South Vietnamese no matter where they choose to live? Ask your Congressman!

Our do-gooders in Washington remind us of the McC. family which ran a little 3-cow dairy on the hill outside of the town where we grew up. Mr. McC. was a lazy drunken bum, but one fine day Mrs. McC. finally prodded him into fixing a gaping hole in the roof. When he arose late that morning, his befuddled mind fooled him into putting on his trousers backwards, so that later when he inevitably fell off the roof he presented a curious sight to the concerned neighbors who gathered around as he lay on the ground. Mrs. McC. knelt beside him and surveyed the groaning body; then she gave her diagnosis: "I don't think he's hurted much—but he's got the devil av a twist!"

Is that what's the matter with Congress, too?

What does credit cost?

By Norine Barnes Home Economist

There are two basic ways to measure credit costs so you can make some comparison: dollar cost and true interest rate.

You can figure both of these. To compare dollar costs find out what the total cost will be, including all charges, and subtract the cost of credit. Compare dollar costs at different stores.

Your annual interest rates can be figured by a formula: two times the finance charge times the number of payments in a year divided by cash price less the down payment times total number of payments plus one.

You buy a refrigerator from an appliance dealer. The cash price is $310. You pay $35 cash down payment. You are to make 16 payments of $17.50 each.

Your use of credit cost is $40. You must decide - Is the refrigerator worth the extra $40 cost? This is an example of installment buying. Before you sign the contract be sure it states clearly: PURCHASE PRICE - DOWN PAYMENT - OR - TRADE IN

Bicentennial News

BONNIE BELL SENDS FACTFINDING STUDY ON GROVER CLEVELAND

Editor's Note: The following is a bicentennial project written by Bonnie Bell, a 10-year old student from Burke, Virginia. For her project she researched the life of the 22nd and 24th President of the United States; Grover Cleveland.

Stephen Grover Cleveland was born on March 18, 1837 in Calwell, N.J. He didn't use his first name as a boy. Grover was the fifth child in the family. He had four brothers and five sisters. The country minister (Cleveland's father) had a hard life. The family was poor. The family moved a lot.

Grover Cleveland went to school at Fayetteville and Clinton in New York. He went to work at the age of 14 as a clerk at the Fayetteville general store. His father died when he was 16. He was then left to support his sister, mother and brothers. Grover Cleveland joined his older brother who was teaching at the New York Institution for the blind. When he was 17 he went West, he worked for his uncle, Lewis F. Allen. He worked for his uncle for six months. He was a clerk.

In 1859 he was admitted to the bar. When the Civil War began he paid a man to take his place so that he could take care of his mother and the other children.

In 1881 Grover Cleveland was elected governor of Buffalo. Cleveland was known as "Veto Mayor."

In 1882 Cleveland was mayor of New York. He was known as an honest man.

Cleveland in 1884 was elected President. He ran against James G. Blaine. The Republicans said they would vote for the Democrats if he was an honest man. James G. Blaine was once accused for something wrong. That is why they nominated Cleveland for President.

Cleveland was the first Democratic president who was elected after the Civil War, so there were many Veteran's Affairs.

Social Security News

REMINDER TO JUNE BRIDES

June brides should remember to change their name with social security. That reminder comes from Charles E. Wofford, social security district manager in Gulfport.

"No matter which month she's married in, a bride should give us her new name so we can keep her social security card and her earnings record accurate and up to date," Wofford said. "Then earnings she had both before and after her marriage can be correctly credited to the same record."

Earnings women have in jobs covered by social security will determine the amount of their cash benefits "and not just when they retire," according to Wofford. "During their working years, women also build disability, survivors, and Medicare protection for themselves and their families," he said.

To get her name changed on her record, a new bride can call or write any social security office. "Or," Wofford said, "she can use a form available at any post office and at many employer personnel offices."

The Gulfport social security office is at 62015 Pass Road. The phone number is 1-896-1324. The Social Security Administration is an agency of the U. S. Department of Health, Education, and Welfare.

Men from the army were being paid pensions when they were in the army. There was a problem though because some men said they hurt from the war and couldn't work. They were also paid pensions. Cleveland vetoed that bill, even if you were hurt in the war. The bill was later passed in 1890.

Grover Cleveland got married to Frances. She was the first woman to get married in the White House. She was 21 years old. They were married in June 1886. They had five children.

In 1888 Benjamin Harrison (Republican) ran against Cleveland. He lost and Harrison was the new President.

In 1893 he won his second term of office. He enjoyed being back at the White House.

In 1892 a financial panic happened. 15,000 business men failures threw 4,000,000 persons out of work. Cleveland felt that the panic was because of the Sherman Silver Purchase Act. This was the Harrison administration. In June 1893 he called a special meeting of congress so they might repeal the act. Congress did repeal the act.

Cleveland spent his later years in Princeton, New Jersey.

After three months of illness he died. His last words were: "I have tried so hard to do right."

Drivers ignore signs

Children are out of school and if traffic regulations are not enforced some of them will be injured.

On Piney Ridge Road children ride bicycles without lights just before and after dark. Near dusk it is difficult to see these children and although there are "Slow Children Playing" signs on Piney Ridge Road most motorists ignore the signs.

Some inconsiderate drivers running these signs are parents of the children playing on Piney Ridge Road.

Sears Ave. is and has been a drag strip for quite some time with most vehicles being driven over 50 MPH.

Motorists using Piney Ridge Road apparently feel that if it is all right to speed on Sears Ave., then it is all right to speed on Piney Ridge Road, and do not hesitate to do so.

If the Waveland Police would issue a few tickets for speeding, the fines collected would offset the cost of a radar unit recently purchased by the City of Waveland for over $500.

Road condition criticized

Does the supervisor who is in charge of the beachfront from Nicholson Ave. to Waveland Ave. think the people will vote for him come election time just because he is now trying to clean it up and make himself look good? Voters of Waveland you have noticed for a long time the difference in the care our section got compared to the sections in other areas especially from Nicholson to the Bay-Wake up voters. Let's show we do care.

Make 16th section land a campaign issue

Editor, Sea Coast Echo

That old gang of ours and Mayor Longo joined the gang.

One end they tax us to death; the other end they charged us to death, and they say no new taxes, but will charge them to death. It's a God send that Gov. Waller helps the poor with some taxes, but look at that charge and what we pay a year.

Now, what will come when all those grants come due just like the money they have from Camille and don't know criticism is not biased by friendship. On the contrary, it is based on (what I, along with Spencer, believe in) honesty, respect and down right decency.

I can't see any good reason for 2 grand juries to waste their time, plus court costs checking into wrong doings, with the ultimate suggestion that the matter deserves due consideration only to see it become "hush hush," after an apparent honest man has lost his job because he would not cooperate with corrupt government.

It is a published fact that on 2 other occasions, this same man in question has been mentioned for abuse of this seemingly worthless school property. I say seemingly worthless because in most cases the rental fee on this property hardly pays for the legal transaction. So what does the school system get? Exactly "0."

It is my honest conviction that Sherman is the man to be fired, tried for apparent disconcert for justice, convicted, and replaced by Spencer. Dickie Jo Ladner should be prosecuted, fined 100 fold, and his contract canceled forever.

Since the fate of this abused property seems to be in the hands of our boards of supervisors; I suggest that all the present day aspirants for this office make this land problem a campaign issue.

The present day rental fee was probably in order 100 years ago, but in our present day money crazed society, it is a farce, a disgrace to our society, and a mockery to our school system. Let's quit financing Dickie Jo everywhere and start financing our Mississippi school system.

Editor, Sea Coast Echo:

I thought you might like to have a little more information on Colonel George Nixon. It was a most interesting article that appeared in the May 8 issue of the Sea Coast Echo. The following information about my side of the family may not have been available to you at that time.

George Nixon died in Texas on his way to California with Yellow Fever. The Nixon family brought his body back to Pearlinton for burial.

Most of the family continued on to California. Col. Nixon's wife did not go with them. She said she loved Hancock County and lived with her son, Joe Nixon, one mile west of Waveland Ave.

She died March 16, 1916, and was buried in Turtleskin graveyard now in NASA zone. Her granddaughter, Mrs. Henry Carver, 524 Booker St., Bay St. Louis, helped bury her next to her daughter, Mrs. Joe Smith. Her son, Joe Nixon, is buried in Bay St. Louis Second Street graveyard.

Of further family interest, William Shubert, son-in-law of Col. Nixon, built the first saw mill in Logtown, Miss. for H. Weston Lumber Co. William Shubert was educated at St. Stanislaus College as it was known then. Shubert was a foreman on the L&N Railroad and was loaned to the Weston Lumber Co. After completing the saw mill he returned to L&N Railroad.

He was picked for the job because he was one of a very few people able to read blueprints.

Veterans Information

Q - The last Civil War veteran died several years ago. Doesn't this make World War I veterans the oldest living veterans group?

A - No. As of March 1975, there were 1,085 living veterans of the Spanish-American War, according to the Veterans Administration.

Q - Suppose a veteran instructed the Veterans Administration to pay proceeds from his National Service Life Insurance in monthly installments. Would his beneficiary have the right to elect another payment option?

A - Yes, but only if option required payments over a longer period of time. Q - Are Vietnam-era veterans taking advantage of current GI Bill education benefits as well as World War II veterans under the original GI Bill?

A - Yes. During the first 97 months of the current Bill, 53.2 percent of the Vietnam-era veterans and servicemen took advantage of their education benefits. This compares to the 50.5 percent who used benefits during a similar period after World War II under the original GI Bill.

Q - My 20-year-old daughter, whose father was killed three years ago while on active duty, plans to be married. Will she still be eligible for war orphans' educational assistance?

A - Yes. Marriage of children eligible for this benefit is not a bar to entitlement.

Veterans reminded low cost insurance available to Aug. 2

Less than 120 days remain for veterans discharged since 1970 to take advantage of the new low-cost Veterans Group Life Insurance (VGLI). Applications and first premium must be received before August 2, 1975.

Veterans Administration Assistant Center Director for Regional Office Merlyn J. Cook, issued the reminder May 1, 1975, and it applies to all veterans who were discharged between April 3, 1970, and August 1, 1974.

The new program offers up to $20,000 for a monthly premium of only $3.40 for veterans under 35, and for those 35 and over, the maximum coverage is $6,800 per month. It is a non-renewable policy designed as interim protection during readjustment to civilian life, Cook explained.

Another important advantage of buying VGLI, Cook pointed out, is that it reinstates the veteran's right to convert his Servicemen's Group Life Insurance Policy to an individual policy at standard rates regardless of his health or physical condition. Normally, this privilege terminates 120 days after discharge. Those covered by VGLI can convert on termination of the five year VGLI policy.

A pamphlet prepared by the VA insurance center in Philadelphia gives complete information on the program. The pamphlet and application forms can be obtained from local VA offices or by writing: Office of Servicemen's Group Life Insurance, 212 Washington St., Newark, N. J. 07102.

State receives grants

The State of Mississippi has just received grants totaling almost $6 million dollars to be used for economic development and improving the criminal justice system.

The Governor announced this week that his office had been awarded a $200,000 state-wide Comprehensive Economic Development Planning Program Grant. Mississippi is the first and only State so far to gain approval for this type grant from the U.S. Department of Commerce.

Two other grants totaling $5,731,000 awarded to the Mississippi Division of Law Enforcement Assistance will fund programs aimed at improving the State's criminal justice system and corrections program.

Folk festival planned

Plans are underway to provide a summer of fun in the sun at state parks throughout Mississippi.

One special event being planned by Roosevelt State Park south of Morton is a June 7-8 Folklife Festival. Several prominent Mississippi artists, craftsmen, and musicians will participate in the Folklife Festival, according to A.V. Lindsey, Acting Director of the Mississippi Park Commission. These artisans and craftsmen will demonstrate their skills and sell their products.

Mrs. Fedesovich was shopping for a new station wagon. She was a previous customer at Turan Lane Chevrolet and was very happy with the way she was treated. At Turan Lane Chevrolet she talked to salesman Burnell Ladner who showed her the large selection of new cars in stock, and she selected a Chevelle Wagon that she liked very much. Long Beach aldermen change meeting times

By BOB INNES
Long Beach Bureau

The Long Beach Board of Aldermen will meet in the morning hours rather than at night. That decision came after amending an ordinance by a 3-2 vote at Tuesday night's regular meeting.

Before the amendment came, harassment among the council resumed.

Alderman Mike Rutledge made the motion to change the meeting time from 7 p.m. to 9 a.m. despite protests from Alderman Jimmy Moran. Moran claimed the new meeting would create a conflict with his job. "It's not fair to ask my employer for 35 hours off for these meetings," Moran stated.

The change of time was initiated by alderman Mike Rutledge who said his family life was suffering from the night meetings. The lengthy discussion was continued by aldermen Sal Guiffria and Moran who claimed the change was not in the interest of the city.

Alderman Jimmy Savarese made the claim that the change would be for the betterment of the city. He further said he thought the city could conduct their business more effectively.

After a 3-2 vote, Guiffria asked City Attorney Harold DeMetz if the mayor had the power to veto the motion. "I would think so said DeMetz, but I'll have to check the code," Mayor Maxwell said, however, he had no intentions of vetoing any action of the board.

Prior to the vote Alderman Guiffria accused the three, Aldermen Rutledge, Savarese, and Richards of meeting in private on Tuesday morning to decide what they would do that night. Guiffria backed his allegation with "I have a tape recording of a discussion with a good friend who told me that you all met in private." Alderman Rutledge asked Guiffria to ask that person to come before the board and say that and I'll say he's lying. Guiffria however, refused to agree to produce that person.

Mayor Sam Maxwell received a written decision by Attorney General A. F. Summer Wednesday regarding a dispute over whether or not two aldermen approved a $200 allowance for the truck expense of the water and sewer commission.

Summer respectfully declined to respond on any actions already taken by the governing authority.

In question since April 15, the argument is presented that Alderman Moran and Guiffria did not knowingly approve that specific part of the budget which included the truck and travel allowance.

According to records of the meeting in which the budget was approved, Alderman Moran made the motion to approve it and a second came from the Mayor who at the time was an Alderman. Further, all aldermen voted "yea."

In other business the council:

Received two letters commending the fine efforts of the Long Beach Police, Air Marine Rescue Unit, and the Mobile-Medic Ambulance Service. The first from Gulfport Mayor "Buzzy" Lang who expressed appreciation of the Police and Rescue unit for "assisting in the search of Kenneth L. Thompson, Jr." The second was from Mrs. Douglas Reid of Long Beach who said that thanks to "two very capable men who helped her with a lady who had two seizures she was able to have proper assistance and get her to the hospital."

Mrs. Reid said that the second one Wednesday could have claimed the young lady's life.

Approved John Spencer as a maintenance man for the city under a federal municipal-aid program.

Agreed to take out an ad in the state Miss Hospitality program. The ad is a sponsorship one and costs $100. Voted in favor of paying all bills.

Governor urges tax appeal

In a telegram to the Mississippi Congressional Delegation Governor Bill Waller said:

"I urge you along with other members of the Congressional delegation to override the $1 per barrel tariff imposed by President Ford on May 27."

"Mississippi cannot afford this tariff since we are 100 percent dependent on the automobile to go to and from work. We cannot be compared with metropolitan states that have mass transit facilities. This $1 tariff could cost our working people 5 cents per gallon for gasoline, and this is unfair and a direct invasion of the free enterprise system. An energy policy promoting the exploration of oil and gas would be much more feasible and productive."

The dishes are in the painting

By BOB INNES
Long Beach Bureau

Mosaics is a specialized form of art. Real Estate is a specific form of sales. Both require talent and skill. Rarely is there one person involved in that kind of combination of talents.

Roberta Swafford is. Her mainstay is real estate with various forms of art running a close second. The month of June is a special one for Mrs. Swafford. Her first art show is now in progress at the Long Beach Public Library sponsored by the Friends of the Library.

In her solo showing, she is featuring 26 works and all but two are for sale.

"Mardi Gras" says Mrs. Swafford is her finest work. Included in the $250 price tag is 30 hours of hard work and some dishes from her kitchen. "My husband will surely notice some of the dishes he's been hunting for when he sees the work," she explained. That particular work took lots of time on the beach collecting useful articles.

Mrs. Swafford has still another surprise, and that is her efforts as a writer. "I have a half-finished novel and 'Ford Times' magazine of the Ford Motor Co. is scheduled to publish my article on points of interests to tourists," she said. She has also been trying to find an agent to read another novel dealing with the personal lives of two men and a woman who travel the rodeo circuit.

As for the art interest Mrs. Swafford explained that she got interested when she was just a child and later completed two years of art study. "I only started working diligently in art about three years ago when I had spare time from my real estate job," she said.

Her husband set up a studio for her in the garage but because the heat is heavy in the summer she "sneaks into the living room" to watch television while working on my paintings.

The Gulf Coast Art Association has helped to surface Mrs. Swafford's art abilities. "Until I joined the association, friends were the only people who saw my works," she said. "I've sold a few but I think the show will help because I need the exposure," she added.

How in the world can a woman who has such a timely habit as art and a most demanding job as a real estate saleswoman keep up with running a house and caring for two teen-age boys?

"I set my own pace and try not to accomplish everything at once," she answered.

Mrs. Swafford considers real estate her mainstay because she puts in more time selling. Mrs. Swafford is employed by Irving Real Estate in Long Beach with sons David, 16, Scotty, 12, and husband, Jim who is a sports car mechanic.

Director says farm news good and bad

Farm news in Mississippi is both good and bad right now, according to Dr. W.M. Bost, Director of the Mississippi Cooperative Extension Service, and Dr. George Mullendore, Extension cotton specialist.

Dr. Bost reported that the export of agricultural products from the state reached a record high in fiscal year 1974, totaling about $450 million.

At the same time, Dr. Mullendore was using reports from county agents across the State to predict the smallest cotton crop in the history of the State.

Planters ran around the clock last week as Mississippi farmers rushed to get a cotton crop planted but Dr. Mullendore said, "Reports from the field indicate that farmers will do well if they plant as much as 900,000 acres this year. Mississippi's smallest crop on record is 955,000 acres in 1967. We have only about 500,000 acres in the ground now, and farmers must have extremely good weather to reach our projected crop of 900,000 acres."

Posture queen

Miss Sandra Finney of Ocean Springs is congratulated upon her selection as Queen of Posture by Dr. Paul Pursley of Bay St. Louis at the annual pageant sponsored by the Mississippi Chiropractic Association at the Sheraton Biloxi Motor Inn last week. Miss Finney is also a member of the United States Bicentennial chorus who will tour the United States and Canada during the coming year.

Governor's mansion opens

After almost four years Mississippi's historic 1840's Governor's Mansion once again houses the State's Chief Executive. State elected officials and others closely related to the restoration project have been invited to officially open the Mansion on Sunday, June 2.

Governor and Mrs. Bill Waller will be joined by former Governors and First Ladies at a "Governor's Day" reception honoring prior occupants of the Mansion. The Governor will entertain his Colonels at a reception on June 21st, and during the month of July the entire state will have an opportunity to visit "their" restored Mansion.

Hancock County Circuit Court Clerk Henry Otis has announced that he will be at the following precincts on the dates and times listed in order to register voters who have not yet done so in order that they may be eligible to vote in the county election on Aug. 5.

Deadline for voters to register for the August primary is July 3. Otis said he would be able to register voters only from the precinct he was in that day.

To facilitate voter registration, Otis said his office would also be open half a day on Saturdays from 8 a.m. until noon and also during the noon hour weekdays beginning June.

Others promise. Only William Winter campaigns on performance.

Look at the headlines. Look at your paycheck. Is this any time for an amateur in the Governor's office?

We need real leadership. We need a Governor who can get things done, who can get Mississippi moving in the right direction. We need a Governor who can bring new jobs, new opportunity to our state. We need William Winter.

Others talk about what they'll do. Winter points to what he's done: as a Legislator, State Tax Collector, State Treasurer, Lieutenant-Governor.

Others talk about openness and accessibility. Winter has released his personal financial statement. His phone number is listed in the Jackson directory. He first voted for open government meetings in the Legislature 20 years ago.

Promises are cheap. Performance counts. You can count on Winter.

Elect William Winter Governor.
He's for real.

Strange new home

Residents of the refugee camp at Eglin Air Force Base in Florida watch with interest as members of Our Lady of the Gulf CYO pass out toys to the children. The camp currently has a population of over 5,000 Vietnamese refugees who live in temporary canvas-topped structures with wooden floors. Most of the refugees in this camp were formerly members of the high income class in Vietnam.

Bald eagle appears everywhere but skies

By JOE PILET

Our National Bird, the Bald Eagle, is found on coins, stamps, beer-cans, frisbees, note paper. Almost everywhere the eagle can be seen! That is everywhere except in flight.

Symbol of strength and freedom, the bald eagle was chosen as our national symbol in 1782. We think of this mighty bird with huge seven-foot wing span soaring high above the trees, head in the clouds. Or we think of her gliding earthward with talons thrust outward to pick up her prey. Perhaps we should learn more about the young eagle. It takes three years from birth until the eagle becomes "bald," or gets those white neck and head feathers.

The baby eagle is a drab brownish-black bird with overly large yellow feet. His first home is a nest in a very tall tree. The nests of eagles are often located near the water. Year after year the nests are occupied. One such nest noted by the National Wildlife Federation has been occupied for 35 consecutive years and its estimated weight is two tons. Each year the eagle parents repair established nests and add about a foot more of twigs and branches to it. Both male and female birds help in the nest building, incubating the eggs and caring for the young.

Eggs are laid in March or April and about 35 days later the young birds hatch. Usually there are two eggs. Baby eagles remain in their nests for ten or eleven weeks — their parents coax them to leave. The female bird is larger than the male and young eagles are larger than their parents. As they grow older their bones contract slightly and they lose some weight when they start flying. Young eagles do not breed until their third to fifth year. When they are three years old they take on the distinctive "bald" markings, that is white head and neck feathers. The white tail feathers also denote maturity.

There are two species of bald eagle, Southern and Northern. The smaller Southern Bald eagle is listed as endangered. It is estimated there are only about 600 of the southern birds in existence. The future of our National Bird depends on protective measures. Their nests must be located and protected. Persistent pesticides used without discrimination have killed many of this noble breed of bird. Mandatory supervision in the use of such pesticides as DDE, DDD, and DDT is needed to protect the limited bald eagle population from complete extinction.

Trade mission follow-up planned

Efforts are underway to follow-up on the recent Middle-East trade mission by Governor Bill Waller and businessmen from across the State.

The Governor, Paul Fugate, head of the Mississippi Marketing Council, and Dr. McMinn, Dean of the School of Architecture, presented a proposition this week to approximately 40 representatives of lumber-related companies to put together a package for prefabricated housing for sale and delivery to the Middle East.

After hearing about existing conditions, desires and needs of the housing interests of Kuwait and Iran, participants were asked to express their opinions and make suggestions related to a cooperative effort to put together a total package including models, mark-ups, and color slides geared to the needs of the two countries. Companies represented at the meeting ranged from Bridget Dabkowski brought along her guitar and in the evenings the CYO workers would sing along with the Vietnamese. "Their favorite song was 'The House of the Rising Sun,'" she said. "They could all sing the song in Vietnamese. One of the refugees played my guitar and he knew all the most recent Carole King songs. He was good," she added.

"If more Americans could see these people," she continued, "they would understand that these people just want to learn a skill and get a job. They don't want a handout. They wanted to give us something, anything, but the only thing they had was water. So they kept trying to give us water. And some of them would stand behind us in the tents and fan us for as long as we stayed there."

When asked of their feelings towards Americans after the fall of their country, Father Tracey said, "They didn't seem bitter. They felt we did what we could and said even if we had stayed it wouldn't have helped."

"They're not bitter in the least and they seem happy just to be alive," Miss Dabkowski said. "If I had lost everything, I would be crying." "It's taught me one thing... to appreciate what I've got."

The CYO plans to return again June 14 with more toys and clothing. Those interested in donating to the toy fund should go to the OLG rectory or call 467-6509. Anyone interested in sponsoring a Vietnamese family should Services in Gulfport for contact the Catholic Social details.

It's for keeps

A Vietnamese child can't believe that the new doll she is holding is really hers to keep. Susie Tabor and Bridget Dabkowski of the Our Lady of the Gulf CYO try to convince her that it is hers. CYO members passed out toys to the children at the refugee camp at Eglin Air Force Base last Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday.

turned around and handed back this money when we need it so badly."

Favre told the school board that the supervisors had already asked the state office to allow expenditure of the money, but that Geoghegan had refused.

"If you think the people in the county will complain now if you give back the money," he said. "Just think of what they will say when the state cuts off your homestead exemption. And they will do it too, they did it already in Harrison County."

State auditor Leslie Ross meeting with supervisors Tuesday said he did not see any hope in appealing to Geoghegan to keep the $180,000.

"The whole point is," he said, "that if the money has not been spent by now it is hard to see it as hurricane related."

Mrs. Glen Dieterich
the former Miss Ila Marie Finley

Miss Ila Marie Finley becomes bride of Glenn Dietrich

Miss Ila Marie Finley became the bride of Glenn Herman Dieterich, Jr., May 3, in a double ring ceremony at St. Louis Cathedral in New Orleans. Parents of the couple are Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Jerome Finley of New Orleans, La., and Bay St. Louis, Miss., and Mr. and Mrs. Glenn Herman Dieterich, Sr., of New Orleans.

The Reverend H. Brian Highfill of the Archdiocese in Southern Louisiana and the Reverend Lin D. Crossman, pastor of Oak Park Presbyterian Church in New Orleans, officiated at the ceremony.

Nuptial music was presented by Miss Elise Cambon, organist, of New Orleans, and George Berger, soloist, of Baton Rouge, who sang "Ave Maria," "Sheep May Safely Grace," and "The Lord's Prayer."

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a floor-length gown by Bianchi of Boston and New York and fashioned of Quiana silk jersey. The long hooded train fell from her shoulders. Her only jewelry was a diamond pendant, gift of the groom.

The bride carried a bouquet of white roses, stephanotis, baby's breath, and centered with a large white orchid.

Attending the bride as matron of honor was her sister, Mrs. Jerald N. Shank of Alexandria, La. Bridesmaids were Mrs. Jeffrey Crane of Shreveport, La.; Mrs. David Hanchey and Mrs. Donald Pope of Baton Rouge, La.; and Miss Jane Reiser, cousin of the groom, of New Orleans. All attendants wore kelly green jersey dresses, also fashioned by Bianchi, and carried bouquets created of pale yellow carnations, stephanotis, and baby's breath.

Attending the groom was Stephen Wegmann, best man; and groomsmen, Patrick Ault, J. Michael Hadley, and Craig Geraei, all of New Orleans; and Jerald N. Shank, brother-in-law of the bride, of Alexandria.

Mrs. Finley chose for her daughter's wedding a long gown of avocado lutescent with matching long coat.

The mother of the bridegroom wore a coral chiffon long gown fashioned with a gathered waistline. Both mothers wore orchid corsages.

Mrs. Thomas W. Hogg of Columbia, Miss., grandmother of the bride, chose for the occasion a long dress fashioned of blue crepe with matching jacket. She wore a large white orchid.

Immediately following the wedding ceremony, the bride's parents entertained with a reception at Vista Shores Country Club.

Out of town guests included Mrs. Thomas W. Hogg and Mr. and Mrs. Jack R. Thompson of Columbia, and Mrs. John Capers of Jackson, Miss. Also present from out of town were Mrs. Richard B. Langford of Shreveport, La., Mrs. Breland H. Gardner of Baton Rouge, and Miss Linda Blankenship of DeRidder, La.

After the rehearsal on the eve of the wedding, the bridegroom's parents entertained the wedding party with a rehearsal dinner at the Commander's Palace in New Orleans.

Following a wedding trip to the Hawaiian Islands and California, the couple will reside in New Orleans, where the groom is employed by WWL-TV as a producer-director.

MR. AND MRS. ALAN SUMRALL

Miss Cheatham, Mr. Sumrall marry in double ring ceremony

First Baptist Church, Bay St. Louis, was the setting for the May 24 wedding of Miss Mitzi Cheatham, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Don Cheatham, and Alan Ray Sumrall, son of Mr. and Mrs. Norris R. Sumrall, all of Bay St. Louis. Rev. Nathan L. Barber, pastor, performed the double ring ceremony before an altar flanked by tall baskets of white gladiolas, yellow and white daisies and baby's breath.

The bride was given in marriage by her father. Her gown of antique white bridal satins, worn by the groom's mother at her wedding 25 years ago, was designed on lines of classic simplicity featuring a fitted basque waist ending in a point in front and joined to a yoke of French illusion edged in Venice lace creating a dropped shoulder effect. The long fitted sleeves edged with Venice lace ended in points over her hands. Her full circular skirt, worn over hoops, cascaded in a graceful train. Her fingertip veil of silk imported English illusion was attached to illusion petals trimmed with seed pearls.

She carried a cascade of miniature white carnations, baby's breath and English ivy centered with a white cymbidium orchid.

Miss Kim Sumrall, sister of the groom, attended the bride as maid of honor and another sister, Miss Trina Sumrall, served as bridesmaid.

They wore floor length baby blue knit dresses with soft flowing skirts. The bodice featured sweetheart neck lines with lace trimmed panels extending to the waistlines. Their blue and white wide brimmed hats were trimmed with yellow and white daisies and blue ribbon streamers. They carried Colonial bouquets of daisies and baby's breath.

Wayne Cheatham, Bay St. Louis, brother of the bride, was best man and Mike Stockman, Bay St. Louis, was groomsmen.

Roger Cheatham, brother of the bride, and Tommy Afford served as ushers.

A reception was held in the Church fellowship hall.

The bride's table, overlaid with a white lace cloth over blue satin, held a three-tiered cake trimmed with antique white spun sugar roses topped with a traditional bride and groom ornament. Silver branched candelabra were on either side.

Mrs. V.W. Yeager and Mrs. John Patrick, aunts of the groom, and Mrs. Bill Morreale presided at the cake and punch tables.

For traveling, the bride chose a baby blue knit dress, white accessories and a white cymbidium orchid corsage.

The couple will make their home in Bay St. Louis.

Out of town guests were the groom's grandparents Mr. and Mrs. G.W. Sumrall, Lyman, Miss., Mrs. Dora Yeager, Wiggins, Miss., Mrs. V.W. Yeager and Mrs. John Patrick, Gulfport, and the bride's grandmother Mrs. Louise Afford, Mobile, Ala.

Junior auxiliary scores success with health fair

The Bay-Waveland Junior Auxiliary pronounced last weekend's free Health Fair a success Monday. Close to 300 persons participated in the Health Fair Saturday at North Bay Elementary School.

Auxiliary member Mrs. Rebecca Williams reported that results of some of the tests had already found some previously undetected health problems and that these persons had already been notified to seek advice from their regular physician.

The day's records show that the following tests were conducted: 70 pap smears, 240 blood pressure, 105 glaucoma, 260 hemoglobin, 260 hematocrit, 260 blood sugar, 90 dental and 130 hearing.

Chairmen for future Junior Auxiliary projects were named at the June 2 meeting at Gulf National Bank Civic Room by president Mrs. James Woodfin. The chairmen are: Mrs. Paul Montjoy, Harbor House; Mrs. Pete Douglas, clothes closet; Mrs. Lee Gillis, geriatrics; Mrs. John Rosetti, rhythm band for special children; Mrs. Frank Parrish, art enrichment; Mrs.

Danny Howard, safety town; Mrs. H. Davis Williams, concert hour; Mrs. Ames Kergosien, citizen's information; Mrs. S. Wayne Murphy, luncheon for exceptional children; Mrs. Robert Kane, children's theatre; Mrs. F.F. Holland, library books for babies; Mrs. James Woodfin, husband's appreciation night; Mrs.

Sheldon Seuzeneau, sponsor a child at Ellisville; Mrs. Lucien Gex, Jr., red cross swimming classes; Mrs. Edgar Santa Cruz, Jr., beautiful activist; and Mrs. Marc Uram, scholarship.

Events for the summer include a clothes closet tea in August and a cabaret and auction July 12.

St. Ann's Parish News

St. Ann's Parish will present a "Fiesta in Old Mexico," as the theme of the annual church fair June 7 and 8 on the church grounds, Lower Bay Road, Clermont Harbor.

Rev. Canisius Hayes, pastor, announced plans for the usual booths as well as many added attractions for the event which will begin promptly at 6 p.m. Saturday and at noon Sunday.

Workers will be attired in native dress to carry out the theme of the fair. There will be Mexican foods and drinks.

St. Ann's Altar Society will sponsor a fish fry at 6:30 p.m. Friday, June 6, in St. Ann's Parish Hall, Lower Bay Road, Clermont Harbor. Donation will be $1.50 per plate.

John Rutherford will be chef for the evening. A benefit social will follow.

Seeing is believing

Technicians from the Harrison County Health Lab conducted tests for glaucoma at the health fair Saturday sponsored by the Junior Auxiliary at North Bay Elementary school.

Head start center honors graduates

The Bay Waveland headstart center honored 52 graduates at its commencement exercises Friday, May 30, at St. Rosenthal Gymnasium in Bay St. Louis.

Guest speaker for the commencement program was Our Lady of the Gulf teacher Miss Lucinda Ann Lizana. Miss Lizana, a graduate of St. Rose de Lima, Bay Senior High, and Viterbo College in LaCrosse, Wisconsin, spoke about the need to encourage all of the children in the program to continue their education as far as possible.

Bay St. Louis Mayor Warren Carver was also present at the ceremonies to congratulate the graduates.

Students who participated in the ceremonies were Donald Anderson, flag bearer; Dianna Peters, giving the invocation; Danna Pursley, giving the salutation; Brenda and Glenda Everette, performing fingerplay; Clinton Bilbo, Russell Jordan and Guy Graham, performing a skit; Ivy Harris, memories of head start; and Mona Thomas, giving the farewell address.

Director of the headstart center, Sullivan Bell, presented the diplomas to the following graduates: Lance Belle, Brenda Everette, Glenda Everette, Guy Graham, John Cameron, Craig Cameron, Russell Jordan, Clinton Bilbo, Samuel Schoonmaker, Janene Raboteau, Darrell Farve, Lisa Joseph, Quentin Bell, Lorrie Kelley, Ivy Harris, Jerome Charles, Lacey Collins, Danna Pursley, Pernell Galloway, Ronald Elzy, Kimberly Fricke, Rose M. Bay VFW honors retired teacher

Mrs. Effie Mazarakis, a retired teacher from Waveland elementary, was honored recently by the Bay St. Louis VFW auxiliary with an award for outstanding Americanism.

President of the Bay St. Louis chapter, Mrs. Lucille Boudreaux, cited Mrs.

Mazarakis for leading her students in daily prayer for the United States, recitation of the pledge of allegiance, and giving the history of the country's flag.

During the Middle Ages, it was believed that the consummation of marriage could be prevented by anyone who, while the wedding ceremony was taking place, either locked a lock or tied a knot in a cord, and then threw the lock or cord away.

Men's softball should not be funded

The Bay St. Louis parks and playgrounds age-old policy of funding men's softball should be ended, especially in view of the recent budget cuts.

Most people agree that the children should be first when it comes to recreation funding, but in fact children should be the only consideration of the parks and playgrounds, outside their maintenance of the parks.

Men's softball can be self-supporting, and that is the reason it is not publicly funded in most areas. With the help of the proceeds from concession stands which can gross over $1,000 on a weekend tournament, men's teams do not need help to pay for their equipment and uniforms. Individual entry fees and sponsorship costs normally make up the difference.

Unlike the men, the children are not capable of supporting their own leagues, and weekend tournaments for them are not as lucrative.

Another point that should be considered in light of the city's budget cut is the utility cost for each of the leagues, for not only does the city pay more for softballs and umpires for the men's league, but since the men play most of their games under the lights their utility bills (which are also paid by the commission) are consistently higher.

For example, the recent utility bill for Commagere Park where the men play ball was $156.96 this past month. This is in marked contrast to the little league's monthly bill of $24, and the Babe Ruth leagues play fewer games and use their field only two times a week rather than three times like the men.

The money spent on softball for men could be better spent to expand the parks and playgrounds' summer program for children. Basketball leagues on outdoor courts, flag football, cheerleading instruction, even weightlifting and judo lessons could be looked to as ways to attract kids who just don't like to play baseball. The only other alternative is to let these children continue to roam the streets for three months on their bicycles.

Speaking of Babe Ruth baseball, league officials said at a recent meeting that the junior Babe Ruth League is not restricted to boys but that girls are also eligible to compete.

"It's just been an accepted fact," said one league official, "that the league is just for boys. That's just not the case. Girls are welcome to try out."

An interesting note is that it is still not too late to try out for the 13-15 year-olds league. Players interested in joining should contact player-agent Jim Thriffley.

THIS WEEK'S QUIZ—Who was the first man to run a sub four minute mile?

Answer to the last quiz: The largest player-trade in major league history was between the New York Yankees and the Baltimore Orioles in 1954. Seventeen players changed uniforms in the two-team deal. The trade winds were apparently still at hurricane force for the Yankees three years later, for in 1957 they were involved in an 11 player deal with the Kansas City Athletics.

White blanks Blues, 9-0

Ricky White of the Long Beach Maroons extended his personal scoreless inning streak to 14 innings as he blanked the Long Beach Blues 9-0 in Senior Babe Ruth League action Sunday afternoon. White, who threw a no-hit shutout against Harrison Central last week, recorded 13 strikeouts in the seven innings he pitched.

The Maroons took advantage of several wild pitches and numerous walks to put the game out of reach in the late innings.

Steve Pique, the losing pitcher walked nine batters in the five innings he worked.

In the first inning the Maroons got all the offense they would need when Bill Lansdale led off with a base on balls, stole second and third bases and scored on a passed ball.

Pee Wee Wescovich led all hitters with two hits in four trips, including a double.

Like any other ambitious ballplayer, Gary Forstall would prefer to be at home plate, but while Hancock Supply is changing pitchers, he finds that there are advantages to being on base.

Bay to host state tourney

Bay St. Louis will be the host city for this year's Babe Ruth baseball tournament for 13-year-olds July 23-26. The announcement was made at a recent meeting of the league officials with state Babe Ruth president Bob Richards present.

The tournament is set to be a double elimination tournament with the winner advancing to the regional in August in Tennessee.

The Bay St. Louis Babe Ruth League is looking to the event as a fund-raising activity to raise funds to send the 14 to 15-year-old team to their state tournament in Hernando, Mississippi.

The winner of last year's state tournament was Long Beach.

Commission's budget cut, spending comes under fire

By DAVID PIERSON
Echo Sports Editor
The Bay St. Louis Parks and Playgrounds Commission is presently suffering from a light money squeeze as a result of a recent budget cut, says commission president Gerald Seuzeneau. But the commission, which is assigned the duties of providing the city's recreation, also appears to be drawing fire from league representatives for what they believe to be misdirected spending on the part of the commission.

The city recently cut back its millage to the recreation-oriented commission from 1.5 to 1.2 mills, causing a drop of $6,000 in the parks and playgrounds treasury. Last year's total budget was $25,772 while this year's budget is only $19,780. This millage cutback, coupled with $4,700 in repair bills for vandalism, forced the commission to study its programs and cut back in certain areas.

Most recreation programs suffered reductions in funds. The Senior Babe Ruth League which was cut out entirely, was only reinstated in the commission's revised budget two weeks ago.

Previously the commission furnished two umpires, one announcer-scorekeeper, balls, safety equipment, park facilities, and utilities. The commission also supplies everything for the boys' and girls' minor leagues (ages 7-12).

With the recent budget cut, however, the parks commission presently furnishes only one umpire and one ball per game with the leagues being forced to provide the other umpire and remaining balls.

An exception is the minor leagues which will remain fully funded by the city commission.

In addition, the commission is responsible for the maintenance of the city's ballparks and the smaller "satellite parks", such as the one on Washington Street.

Seuzeneau said this week the situation with Parks and Playgrounds is dire. "My contention is that we are regressing because of this reduction in the millage," said Seuzeneau. "We're in a tight squeeze and have been forced to cut back."

Little League and Babe Ruth officials have been vocal in their opposition to any cutbacks to their leagues, however, and have made it clear they feel the men's softball league should be the first to suffer any funds cutback in order to maintain and expand the children's leagues. "Personally, I think it's ridiculous that the men's softball league should be funded," said Bay St. Louis Little League vice president, Fred Cabell. "With the situation in the past, it could be afforded, but with recent budget cuts, the Little League is steadily getting the short end."

Seuzeneau, one of those who favors continued funding for men's softball argues that parks and playgrounds should provide recreational opportunities for all citizens, but agrees that the commission should serve primarily the children.

"We try to provide tax dollars to all citizens," said Seuzeneau, "but of course our first concern is the children."

Local waterway maps available

The Sea Grant Advisory Service and the Mississippi Cooperative Extension Service are offering complicated water maps of inland waterways to the entire Gulf Coast.

The maps, designed by Leon O. Paulette of the Sea Grant Advisory Service, mark the boat ramps, fishing camps, mileage, waterways, the names of the waterways and how they can be reached.

The key map of the series entitled "Go Fishing" is available at local chamber of commerce offices and from county extension offices. "Go Fishing" indicates which areas are detailed in separate maps.

Among the local areas that are detailed in separate maps are Ansley, Jourdan River and West St. Louis Bay, Wolf River and East St. Louis Bay. Another brochure compiled by Paulette in conjunction with Dr. David Veal is one devoted exclusively to flounders and floundering.

Also available from the advisory and extension services is a chart of the Mississippi Tide tables. Additional brochures and information can be obtained by writing the Sea Grant Advisory Service, Box 4557, Biloxi 39531.

Merchants, 5-4
Merchants Bank scored three runs in the first inning and hung on to edge the American Legion, 5-4 last Wednesday and extend their unbeaten string to seven games.

Rodney Cor led the winners with three hits. Scott Adam, the winning pitcher, and Andrew Haas added two hits each. No American Legion player got more than one hit. David Strong took the mound loss.

Merchants 301 100-5
American Legion 000 220-4

Gulf National, 8-7
Jeff Kergosien raced home with the winning run on a wild pitch with two out in the bottom of the last inning to climax a three-run rally that lifted Gulf National Bank over Hancock Bank 8-7 Thursday afternoon.

Melvin Barnes of Hancock Bank led all hitters with three hits. Kergosien, Neil Wilkenson, and Kelly Geroux all gathered two hits apiece for Gulf National.

Kergosien was the winning pitcher and Ricky Hardie absorbed the loss.

Hancock Bank 000 241-7
Gulf National 103 013-8

Riemann's, 7-3
Riemann Stars struck for four runs in the first inning and held off the American Legion to win 7-3 Friday afternoon. Donald Carver led the Stars hitting attack with three hits in four trips to the plate. No Legion player got more than one hit.

Ronald Carter was credited with the pitching win and Bruce Cabell was the loser.

American Legion 000 300-3
Riemann 400 30x-7

Jaycees, 8-7
Dennis Manieri of the Jaycees scored on a slow roller in the eighth inning to hand the undefeated Merchants Bank Expos their first loss of the season, 8-7.

With the score tied 6-6 after six innings, Bobby Richardson scored on a single to right field by Jimmy Sones to give the Jaycees a slim one-run lead.

But the league leaders battled back to tie the count at 7-7 when Andrew Haas singled, stole second, and scored on a two-out single by Charles Oliver.

In the eighth inning, Manieri walked and moved to third on Steve Favre's single. Bobby Richardson followed with a walk to load the bases with none out. Tyrone Benoit then tapped a slow roller down the third base line that scored Manieri. The Expos' defense tightened and the Jaycees were unable to score again.

Dwayne Benoit and Jim Sones led the winners with three hits and two hits respectively. Andrew Haas led Merchants with three hits in three trips, and Charles Oliver gathered two hits in the losing cause.

Dennis Manieri picked up the hill win, and Andrew Haas was charged with the loss.

Jaycees 000 240 11-8
Merchants 004 011 10-7

Hancock Bank, 4-3
The Hancock Bank Lions withstood a last-inning challenge from the Jaycees to win Monday afternoon 4-3.

Josh Hansel and Tommy Godwin both got two hits for the winners, and no Jaycee player got more than one hit.

Darrell was the winning pitcher and Bobby Richardson the loser.

Hancock 012 100-4
Jaycees 010 001-3

Gulf National, 19-2
The Gulf National Bank Cards, still with hopes for the first round championship, exploded for 15 runs in the second inning to dump the American Legion Colts, 19-2 Monday afternoon in a game that was called in the fourth inning according to the ten-run rule.

Mike Rogues of the Cards led all hitters with three safeties while Jeff Kergosien and Howe Crowder both aided the winner's cause with two hits. David Strong collected two hits for the Colts.

Kelly Geroux picked up the mound win and Ron Lusich took the loss.

Gulf National 315 01-19

The Player of the Week

Henry Monti is the first Coast Electric player ever to be named the Babe Ruth Player of the Week. To win this honor, Monti had a perfect night at the plate with four hits in four at-bats, three runs batted in, two runs scored, and six stolen bases in Coast Electric's 14-3 win over American Legion Monday.

A defensive mainstay in the outfield, Monti also has a slot in the pitching rotation and is a strong candidate for the all star team.

Players receiving honorable mention are Greg Hutson of the Rotary Club who struck out 16 batters, Johnny Kersanac of Coast Electric, and Scott Colson of Hancock Supply.

HENRY MONTI

Firemen honor deputy chief

Retiring deputy chief of the Henderson Point-Pass Christian Isles Volunteer Fire Department, Paul Blake, was honored June 2 with a special plaque for outstanding contributions at the monthly meeting at Benny French's Tavern.

At the meeting the department also voted to begin a policy of charging $10 annual membership dues for residents of Henderson Point, Pass Christian Isles, Timber Ridge and Pine Point shores for fire protection. Residents who are not members will be billed for a fire fighting call.

New officers for the coming year are Dewayne Mallini, chief; Lucien Dinapolic and George Betz, deputy chiefs;

Mrs. J.W. Terrell, secretary; Mrs. Corky Villars, treasurer; and R.J. Caire, administrator. Also selected were Ed Horton, training officer; and Dewayne Mallini, Lucien Dinapolic and Paul Blake, delegates to the Harrison County firefighters association.

Local students named to president's list

Local students included on the list were: from Bay St. Louis, Cheryl Ann Blaize, Delma L. Powell Jr., Russell Wallace Chapman Jr., Janelle Marie Ladner and Carolyn Phillips; and from Waveland, Irene Marie Peirce and Suzanne Stevens.

If I had the ball

Hancock Bank's pitcher looks out the corner of his eye at the Jaycee baserunner who is sliding home after a wild pitch. The run scored, but Hancock Bank hung on to win 4-3.

The past weekend wasn't too good for fishing. Too much rain and thunder storms. The water in most streams is still bad due to the recent rains.

However, some salt water fish were caught off the American Legion pier and other places out front, even speckles which seem to be coming in.

Talked to some soft crabs who said they had caught a few small crabs but nothing to brag about. They still have hope they will start giving soon. Hard crabs gotten are also on the smaller size.

Mostly gumbo type. The water in the Jourdan River and Bayou LaCroix areas are improving but the rains have it still of a reddish color.

Red Kimball, one of our best flounders, went after them up Jourdan River. Red said the water is not clear enough yet.

Bill Hunt was down from Hattiesburg with M.F. Cass. Bill is a fisherman, frogger, and hunter. Will come down again when things get right.

Met Gene Malley and Junior Bourgeois. They too are hoping fishing will get back to normal soon.

One of our younger fishermen is Bob Biehl, the grandson of Mrs. Albert Biehl. Bob does most of his fishing from the American Legion pier and gets his share of fish. Not doing too hot lately, he said.

Just to prove that fish are not biting, Dick Mestayer and a friend spent two days fishing at Doe Point, Turkey Bayou, Grand Pass and Half Moon. They didn't even catch a cat fish, according to John Plove.

Johnny Johnston and Bill Lushon went fishing at Dauche Bayou, Lockport and Limoneaux Lake the latter part of the week. Will report how they make out later.

These men are real fishermen. They go regularly, know where to go and return with plenty of the finny tribe.

Tom Capdepon talks a good fishing game and believes it himself. No kidding, Tom is a good fisherman. He also flounders, catches soft crabs and hard crabs.

Ace Jones reported catching some nice perch around the McLeod recreation center on Bayou LaCroix.

The restocking of Jourdan recently has been a good job. There should be better fishing in the river if folks give them a chance to grow. Be a good sport and throw the small ones back. Don't have to tell this to a real sportsman.

Roger Boudry returned home this week after vacationing for a week. He tried fishing but was handicapped by the weather. Come back again, Roger.

Felix Seeger and son Gary went crabbing on the American Legion pier last Saturday. They caught one dozen crabs. As the story goes, Felix threw the crabs into the air and the wind blew them away. Goes to show how skinny they are running.

Winstead signs basketball grant

PERKINSTON, Miss.—Pass High's Connie Winstead heads a list of four women who have signed grant-in-aid basketball scholarships to Mississippi Gulf Coast Junior College.

Sue Ross, coach of the Perkinson Campus-based women's teams, said the signing of Connie Winstead brings to nine the number of players receiving scholarships for the 1975-76 season.

Miss Winstead, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Leonard J. Winstead, is a six-foot center and "one of the most sought-after players in the state," Miss Ross said.

She made the District 8-A all-tournament team four times and the All-Pascagoula River Conference team in 1973, '74 and '75.

In 1974 and '75 she received the most valuable player award in the conference and also won offensive player and free throw awards at Pass High.

Miss Winstead was earlier selected to play in the Mississippi senior All-Star Game in August, and her uniform number (11) has been retired by Pass High School.

In addition to her athletic achievements, she was selected to Who's Who Among American High School Students, president of the FHA Club, and secretary of the student council.

"Gulf Coast is fortunate to have signed Miss Winstead," Miss Ross said. "She will strengthen one of our weak points which was lack of strength on defense and inside scoring on offense."

The three other signees announced by Miss Ross were Marilyn Powe of St. Martin, Kathy Danzey of Stone, and Regina McMillian of Waveland.

CONNIE WINSTEAD

YOU CAN ALWAYS EAT THE BAIT

There is a long-standing joke among fishermen that if you aren't successful at catching fish you can always eat the bait. This might be difficult to do when you consider the plastic and metal lures which fill many tackle boxes; and live bait anglers are known to carry some unappetizing concoctions to the lake.

But there is one popular lure that can serve as both bait and something to eat if the fishing isn't a success.

There are more than 275 species of crawfish in the United States and almost everywhere they are used by fishermen as bait. One technique especially favored for bass fishing by the anglers experts at Mercury outboards calls for removing the crawfish's pincers and sliding a number 2 hook through the carapace just ahead of the tail. The bait is then cast toward shore and retrieved slowly over the bottom. Rock or gravel points are best spots to use this method. When the bass takes the lure, wait to set the hook until the fish has time to swallow the bait.

However, if the fish aren't cooperating, and you want to try a different kind of food, consider preparing and serving the crawfish instead of using them for bait.

Wash seven pounds of crawfish in clean water and then place them in heavily salted water for about five minutes for purging. Rinse them again in plain water. Next, heat a large pot of water to boiling, adding three sliced lemons, two onions, one pound of salt, two cloves garlic, Cayenne pepper to taste, and a package of dry seafood boil (available at most grocers).

Place the crawfish in the pot and boil for five minutes. Turn off the fire, cover the pot and let them soak in the mixture for 20 to 30 minutes. Then taste one and if the seasoning is insufficient, let them soak a little longer.

To eat crawfish, cut off the tail portion, remove the shell and serve hot with spicy tomato sauce or lemon juice.

Q. Here's one you'll get a kick out of. What two leading NFL kickers are products of the same college?

A. That one's easy. Ray Guy of the Oakland Raiders, with a 45.3 punting average, was barely nosed out of the top spot in 1973 by Jerrel Wilson of the Kansas City Chiefs. Wilson's 45.5 average led all of pro football. Both punters developed their skill at Southern Mississippi. Guy is that rarity, a punter who was a No. 1 draft selection.

Q. Didn't someone in the NFL set a new record in 1974 for consecutive passes? Who was it and how many were completed in a row?

A. You're right. Ken Anderson of the Cincinnati Bengals hooked up with his receivers on 16 straight passes. That broke the old record of 15 set in 1967 by both Len Dawson of Kansas City and Broadway Joe Namath. But Anderson's record didn't last as long as the old one. Baltimore's Bert Jones hit on 17 straight against the Jets in the Colts' last game of the season. However, Anderson still won honors as the AFC's most successful passer for the year.

The classic swing

An unidentified Hancock Bank batter displays the ideal batting swing in a game against the little league rival Jaycees. His eyes straight ahead, his feet firmly planted, and his swing level, the batter lined a single up the middle to help the Lions down the Jaycees 4-3.

BWYC Backwash

HILL REGATTA - Bay Waveland Juniors tied for third place in the Hill Junior Invitational Regatta at St. Andrews Bay Yacht Club in Panama City, Fla., last weekend. Elizabeth Chapman skipped the first race for BWYC with Amy Chapman and Kenny Allen Crewing. They finished fourth in the stiff squally weather. The wind dropped considerably and the second day's races were sailed in light fluky air. Amy Chapman sailed to a third place with Randy Santa Cruz and Elizabeth Chapman crewing. Randy earned a second place in the final race with Amy and Elizabeth as crew.

The host club was the proud winner of the Hill Regatta for the first time. Their team consisted of Chip Merlin, winner of the first race, D. McInane, winner of the second race, and Mike Douglas, who finished fourth.

Final standings in the Hill Regatta:
 St. Andrew's Bay Yacht Club - 5 points
 Pontchartrain Yacht Club - 7 1/2 points
 Fort Walton Yacht Club - 9 points
 Bay-Waveland Yacht Club - 9 points
 Gulfport Yacht Club - 13 points
 PORTSMOUTH RACE - Results of Bay Waveland's second Portsmouth race in order of finish:
 Ellen Eagan in the Hobie Cat
 Pete Morrill in the Riffraff
 Chip Wolfe in Puff
 Mark Uram in Half Moon
 Arthur Geary in the Knorr
 Ray Stieffel in the Gulf Coaster
 George Riess in the Rainbow
 Paul White in Espinilla
 Basil Kennedy in Bugaboo
 Anthony Trapani in the Balboa
 Vinette Kastler in the Kitwake
 Dan Barber in the American Fiberglass

Brave catcher Pocoroba becomes hero

ATLANTA - Heroism seems to run in Biff Pocoroba's family.

The young catcher for the Atlanta Braves has become somewhat of a hero himself by stepping in and taking over the starting position in the Atlanta big league lineup at just age 21. But his effort to be a big league hero doesn't even come close to comparing to what his grandfather did.

Biff is the grandson of Benedict Pocoroba, a former FBI man, secret service agent and highly decorated undercover agent at Trieste and Turkey. As an FBI agent, he was partly responsible for dealing up Chicago during the days of Al Capone.

But that was over 40 years ago, and now young Biff has challenges of his own to meet. When the Braves reported to spring training this year, Biff was considered the number four catcher in the organization. The big league club had three returning veterans in Vic Correll, Johnny Oates and Paul Casanova. It seemed that Biff would definitely spend a season or two more in the minor leagues. However, spring training saw Casanova released by the club; the early season saw Johnny Oates traded; and finally, Biff took over the starting spot.

His addition to the starting lineup was followed by four straight victories over the Giants and Phillies, and young Biff became a fixture in the lineup.

And with a name like "Biff Pocoroba," how could he not succeed in the big leagues? "I wanted him to be a big league ball player and wanted him to have a name that sounded like one," his father said from their Woodland Hills, Calif., home. "I named him Biff because I didn't want him to have to go through life answering to Herman, or something. Biff sounded rugged." So, "Biff" became Biff's real name.

And as for his last name, POCORABA, Biff says, "I've been called a lot of things. Scraps (minor league manager Clint Courtney) used to call me Coca-Cola."

Pocoroba could be the Braves number one catcher for many years to come. He has been an all-star the past two seasons in the minor leagues. Last year at Savannah he hit .311 and drove in 45 runs. This spring he was recipient of the Donald Davidson Award as the best rookie in spring training.

GARR'S A STAR: Who's the most popular Atlanta Brave?

Don't answer anyone other than Ralph Garr if you don't want an argument from the Braves fans who sit in the left field seats each game at the Stadium. A group of fans sit out there every game cheering every move that the Road Runner makes.

Winn Dixieland home of Harvest Fresh Produce

HARVEST FRESH
PACKAGED PRODUCE

After a Winn-Dixie Field Buyer purchases our Produce, it is rushed, in freshness controlled carriers, to our warehouse-distribution centers, where it is again inspected and immediately dispatched to your Winn-Dixie Store. If refrigeration is required in transit, it's provided all along the way. When the produce reaches your store, our trained Produce Man further inspects the items—washes, trims and packages each, as required, to keep it harvest fresh and in the best condition possible to retain its quality and freshness all the way into your home.

nets but can be taken on hook and line using pieces of worms or dough-balls as bait. Mullet are also good when smoked. Fishermen vouch for them as a seafood delicacy.

Shrimping time is not far off. They will be caught off the seawall down Cedar Point way. If you catch shrimp with a cast net don't be a litter bug. Clean up your trash, small fish, etc. Our seawall down there has just been repaired. Let's keep it clean.

Have had some good reports about those catching frogs. They are numerous in local ponds, small bayous and even highway ditches. A headlight and jigger or hand grabber is all that is needed to catch them.

A pointed spear-like jig breaks the skin which is bad. Some frog catchers catch them by hand. When frog legs are fried they are delicious. It is a lot of fun to go frogging. A treat for the whole family.

Was told that red fish are still being caught in the Heron Bay area. Live minnows and pieces of dead shrimp on the Shad Rig seem to be the best baits.

Carole Cooke who is with the Bay-Waveland Pest Control Co. is quite a fisherman. She goes whenever she can and Sunday caught 10 speckle trout in the Rigolets area. Water must be good there.

SPORTSMAN OF THE WEEK - Ames Russ, one of the older fishermen, does mostly salt water fishing but, like old timers, goes after them whenever he can. A real sportsman, Russ has been retired for several years.

Brothers take vows

Three Brothers of the Sacred Heart will make their final profession of vows and seven will profess their religious commitment at 11 a.m. Sunday, June 8, marking the end of the annual Brothers' retreat at St. Stanislaus in Bay St. Louis. Candidates for final profession are Brother Elbert Farrelly, son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Farrelly of Providence, Rhode Island; Brother Francis David, son of Mr. and Mrs. Francis E. David, Jr., of Alexandria, Louisiana; and Brother Ivy LeBlanc, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ivy LeBlanc, Sr. of Baton Rouge, Louisiana. Brother Elbert is presently on the faculty of St. Stanislaus; Brothers Francis and Ivy are at Brother Martin High School, New Orleans. Those renewing their commitment are: Brother Harold Harris, son of Mr. and Mrs. Stanley J. Harris of New Orleans; Brother John Battalio, son of Mr. and Mrs. Vincent J. Battalio of Vicksburg, Mississippi; Brother Peter Kosydar, son of Mr. and Mrs. Peter J. Kosydar, Sr., of Dallas, Texas; Brother Thomas Dugger, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ned E. Dugger of Des Moines, Iowa; and Brother William Leimbach, son of Mr. and Mrs. William Henry Leimbach of New Orleans. Brothers Harold and Peter are teachers at St. Stanislaus; Brothers John and William are at Catholic High School; Brother Thomas is stationed at Brother Martin High School, New Orleans. Making their final profession as Brothers of the Sacred Heart, following a year novitiate, are: Brother Ernest Tomasello, son of Mr. and Mrs. Anthony Tomasello of New Orleans; and Brother Robert LeBlanc, son of Mr. and Mrs. Wharton A. LeBlanc, Sr., of Baton Rouge, Louisiana.

PRC sets registration

Receiving his commission.

Bay St. Louis native Richard P. Cooper is congratulated by his parents Mr. and Mrs. Robert J. Cooper on receiving his commission as a second lieutenant in the U.S. Air Force at commencement ceremonies at the University of Southern Mississippi recently. Cooper, who earned his commission through the Air Force ROTC program at USM, will be assigned to supersonic pilot training.

Hancock boy scouts attend day camp

Boy Scout camps for scouts in the New Orleans Area Council will open this summer June 15 at Camp Salmen north of Slidell, La. and the Salmen Scout Reservation near Sellers, Miss. Camp periods begin 1:30 p.m. each Sunday through the summer and conclude the following Saturday at 10:30 a.m. The total fee at both camps is $38.50 per boy.

Also planned for the summer is the Merit Badge Week at Camp Salmen July 27-Aug.

Society offers terriers, beagles

Bay-Waveland Humane Society, Inc., will hold adoption day at the Waveland animal shelter, Spruce Street, Waveland, from 2 to 6 p.m. Sunday.

There are a number of dogs including a male beagle, one female rat terrier, a mixed fox terrier and one mixed Labrador retriever in need of homes.

The family of David Williams wishes to thank each and everyone for the cards and flowers.

CARD OF THANKS

We would like to acknowledge our heartfelt thanks to all Coastians who came to our aid in our time of distress.

Stanislaus future honorees

St. Stanislaus principal Brother Lee Barker is flanked by 8th grade award winners, Keith Ladner, (left) son of Mr. and Mrs. Terry Ladner, recipient of the American Legion Award, and Peter Bernheim, son of Mr. and Mrs. Paul Bernheim, winner of the Character Cup, at the 12th eighth grade promotion ceremony at the school.

Charles B. Murphy teachers named to honorary society

Four teachers at Charles B. Murphy School in Pearlinton were honored last week with membership in the Outstanding Elementary Teachers of America Association.

The teachers, Miss Sandra Abry of Gulfport, Miss Betty Williams of Picayune, Douglas Spence of Carriere and Hollis Ladner of Waveland, were selected to the association on the basis of their professional, personal and academic achievements. Biographies of the four teachers will appear in the annual publication, "Outstanding Elementary Teachers of America", and they will be entered in competition for five national awards of $500. Guidelines for selection include an educator's talents in the classroom, contributions to research, administrative abilities, civic service and professional recognition.

First diplomas

Father Victor Seidell of Annunciation School in Kila awarded diplomas to 18 kindergartners at graduation ceremonies at the school May 23. Receiving diplomas from teachers Mrs. Gladys Haas and Mrs. Lynn Holden were Cherelle Comfort, Kimberly Hamby, Charlotte Harris, Wendy Hattavaugh, Kandl Haynes, Karen Ladner, Margaret Lizana, Curt Deschamp, Lonnie Deschamp, Brett Favre, Mark LaFontaine, Darren Mauffray, Scott Moran, William Moran, Scott Morrison, Byron Peterson, Dion Ruzicka, and Troy Wicktom.

Pearl River begins two new secretarial programs

Pearl River Junior College will offer a new program in legal and medical secretarial beginning in the fall semester of the 1975-76 school year said vo-tech coordinator Albert Brooks.

Pearl River will award Associate Degrees upon completion of the program, he said. Brooks said that the program was developed on the basis of surveys of law firms and hospital administrators who indicated a need for such a program in the PRC six-county supporting district.

Coast and Christ Episcopal conduct honors program

The annual honors program for Christ Episcopal Day School and Coast Episcopal High School, marking the formal closing of classes for the school year, was held Sunday evening in Christ Episcopal Church, Bay St. Louis.

Students receiving honors for achievement of an average of 90 or above in each subject included Sarah Waff, Hunt Caraway, Jody Compretta, Daniel Dorion, Mona Hudson, Christopher Patton, Jodi Triche, and Dana Wheeler from the first grade; second graders Mark Wheeler, Kathy Colson, Virginia Haas, Tricia Hennessey, Peter Kelly, Jack Mickelberg, Chris Powell and Lisette Saucer; and third grade students Stella Wingo, Leigh Anne Anderson, Noelle Crull, Courtney Egan, John Horton and Chris Whitlock.

Students in grades four through eleven received letters for achieving scholastic honors and included Stephen Colson, Melissa Behringer, Ames Kerley and Caroline Madden from the fourth grade; Hunt Vegas, Rhodes Perry, Scott Stewart and Ryan Vicknair, fifth grade; and Vernon Niven in the sixth grade. Seventh graders Laurie Wood, Helene Giles and Shelley Stewart; Sara Furr from the eighth grade; Brad Crull, Michelle Crull and Jodi Imgrund from the ninth grade; Sheryl Stringer, Brad Poindexter, Theron Furr and Holly Vegas from the tenth grade; and Neal Barentine, Sharon Anderson and Coco Lafaye from the eleventh received letters.

Perfect attendance certificates were awarded to Kathy Colson, Tammy Lansden, Raymond Wallace, Shawn Hennessey, Stephen Colson, Annabelle Lipscomb, and Pat Niven from the elementary school, and to Warren Frank and Robbie Asher from the high school.

N.E.D.T. awards went to Brad Crull, Michelle Crull, Robert Vicknair, Rutledge Parker, Theron Furr, Bradley Poindexter and Lisa Weeks, with Michelle Crull and Lisa Weeks receiving honors for the highest scores in their respective ninth and tenth grade classes.

Awards for the best essays in a contest sponsored by the Daughters of the American Revolution went to Scott Stewart and Margaret Hennessey. Participation awards went to Annette Rand, Cheri Prince, Lauri Wood, Jata Munro, Elizabeth Santa Cruz, Shirley Shelton, Robin Henley, Suzanne Saussy and Shelley Stewart from the high school. Elementary school students receiving certificates included Vernon Niven, Willie Balch, Rachel Gex, Vickie Bell, and Cynthia Morse, all sixth graders; and also fifth grade students Hunt Vegas, Pat Niven, Joe Kelley, Ryan Vicknair, Rhodes Perry and Clay Richaud.

The drama award, given for outstanding performance and work in drama, went to Bill Kulick, a sophomore at Coast Episcopal High. For her outstanding performance on the district level and the achievement of two superior ratings on the state level, Sharon Anderson was awarded the speech medal. The typing medal went to Jackie Anderson; Latin medal to Michelle Crull; and the March of Dimes award to Cathy Wood. Kyle Herring and Lizana Munro were recipients of the governor's award for safe driving; and special science awards went to Brad Crull and Jackie Anderson, science fair winners on the local level and second and third place state winners.

French awards were presented to students from the elementary and high school levels who participated and scored highest in the district French exams given in Hattiesburg in March. From the elementary school first, second and third place winners for the highest scores were Rhodes Perry, Johnny Fahnestock and Vernon Niven. Certificates of honor were awarded to Jack Mickelberg, Alison Frank, Virginia Haas and Hunt Vegas; and certificates of merit to Scott Stewart, Bill Lang, Ann Moran, Tricia Hennessey, Ace Kerley, Caroline Madden, David Lansden, Stella Wingo, Mark Wheeler, Noelle Crull, Courtney Egan, Lisette Saucer and Ken Saucer. Award recipients from the high school included Jackie Anderson, Bill Kulick, Vanessa Lindsay, Brad Poindexter, Sheryl Stringer, Lisa Weeks, and Cathy Wood.

Certificates of athletic participation in elementary football and basketball teams were presented by Lambert Boyd. Students honored for participating in both sports included John Tate, Vernon Niven, Johnny Fahnestock, Willie Balch, Donald Diboll, Sam Furr, Joe Gex, Hayward Guenard, Joe Kelley, Legier Kuhner, Bill Lang, Pat Niven, Rhodes Perry, David Posey, Clay Richaud, Scott Stewart, Hunt Vegas, Ryan Vicknair and Mike White; with Ames Kerley, Brad McDonald and Cliff Northrop receiving certificates for participation in football only.

Certificates were presented by Mrs. June B. Coffey, principal of the schools, to parents who have performed outstanding services to the schools throughout the year, including Mr. and Mrs. Walter Gex, Mrs. John Ramsay, Mrs. Helene Giles, Mrs. Helen Jones, Mr. Jim Bramlett, Mr. Roger Crull, Mr. P. J. Benvenuti, Mr. Paul Vegas, Mr. John Tate, Mr. Bill Stewart, Mr. Skip Wusnack, and Mr. Gerald Keatinge.

Bay resident receives degree

Bay St. Louis resident, Miss Piji White, recently received a Master of Arts degree in recreation education from the University of Iowa in Iowa City at commencement ceremonies Saturday, May 17.

A closer look

Students at St. Stanislaus examine a new ten-inch reflector telescope recently installed on the roof of the school. The telescope, which is motor driven and equipped for photography, was recently used to photograph the lunar eclipse. Testing the telescope are students Randy Santa Cruz and Walter Kerly and Stanislaus science teachers Brother Leon and Brother Eduardo.
